COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Using an interdisciplinary feminist approach, this course introduces students to select topics that render the complexity of the Latina experience throughout the United States. The critical role and relationship between cultural production and representation, race, gender, class, ethnicity, sexuality, citizenship, memory, immigration/migration, and nation are explored to expand students’ understanding of what drives the Latina experience nationwide. Students will read and assess course assigned texts and primary and secondary sources to advance their grasp of the relationship between Latinas and Latino settlement writ large within and beyond U.S. society.
